Episode 16: Applications

OTP Applications

- A component implementing some distinct functionality

    - Distinct parts of an app can be separated into their own apps

- Can be started and stopped as a unit

    - Complicated OTP apps have a root supervisor

- Can be re-used in other systems

OTP is "buzzword compliant" because it

- Encourages isolated components
- Allows these components to run on separate hardware
- Solves the microservice communication problem
